Since Grade 9, we had been told that the steps from every grade up to matric would be massive, and it did not fail to deliver on that promise. The global COVID-19 pandemic that we are still experiencing, did not make things any easier.

With that being said, looking back on this year, it was actually quite enjoyable, and the intensity and workload has really had a positive impact on me as a person. It has made me tougher and definitely more independent. It also taught me the value of good relationships because in times like these, your friends, family and even teachers are some of your most important contributors towards coping mentally with your matric year.

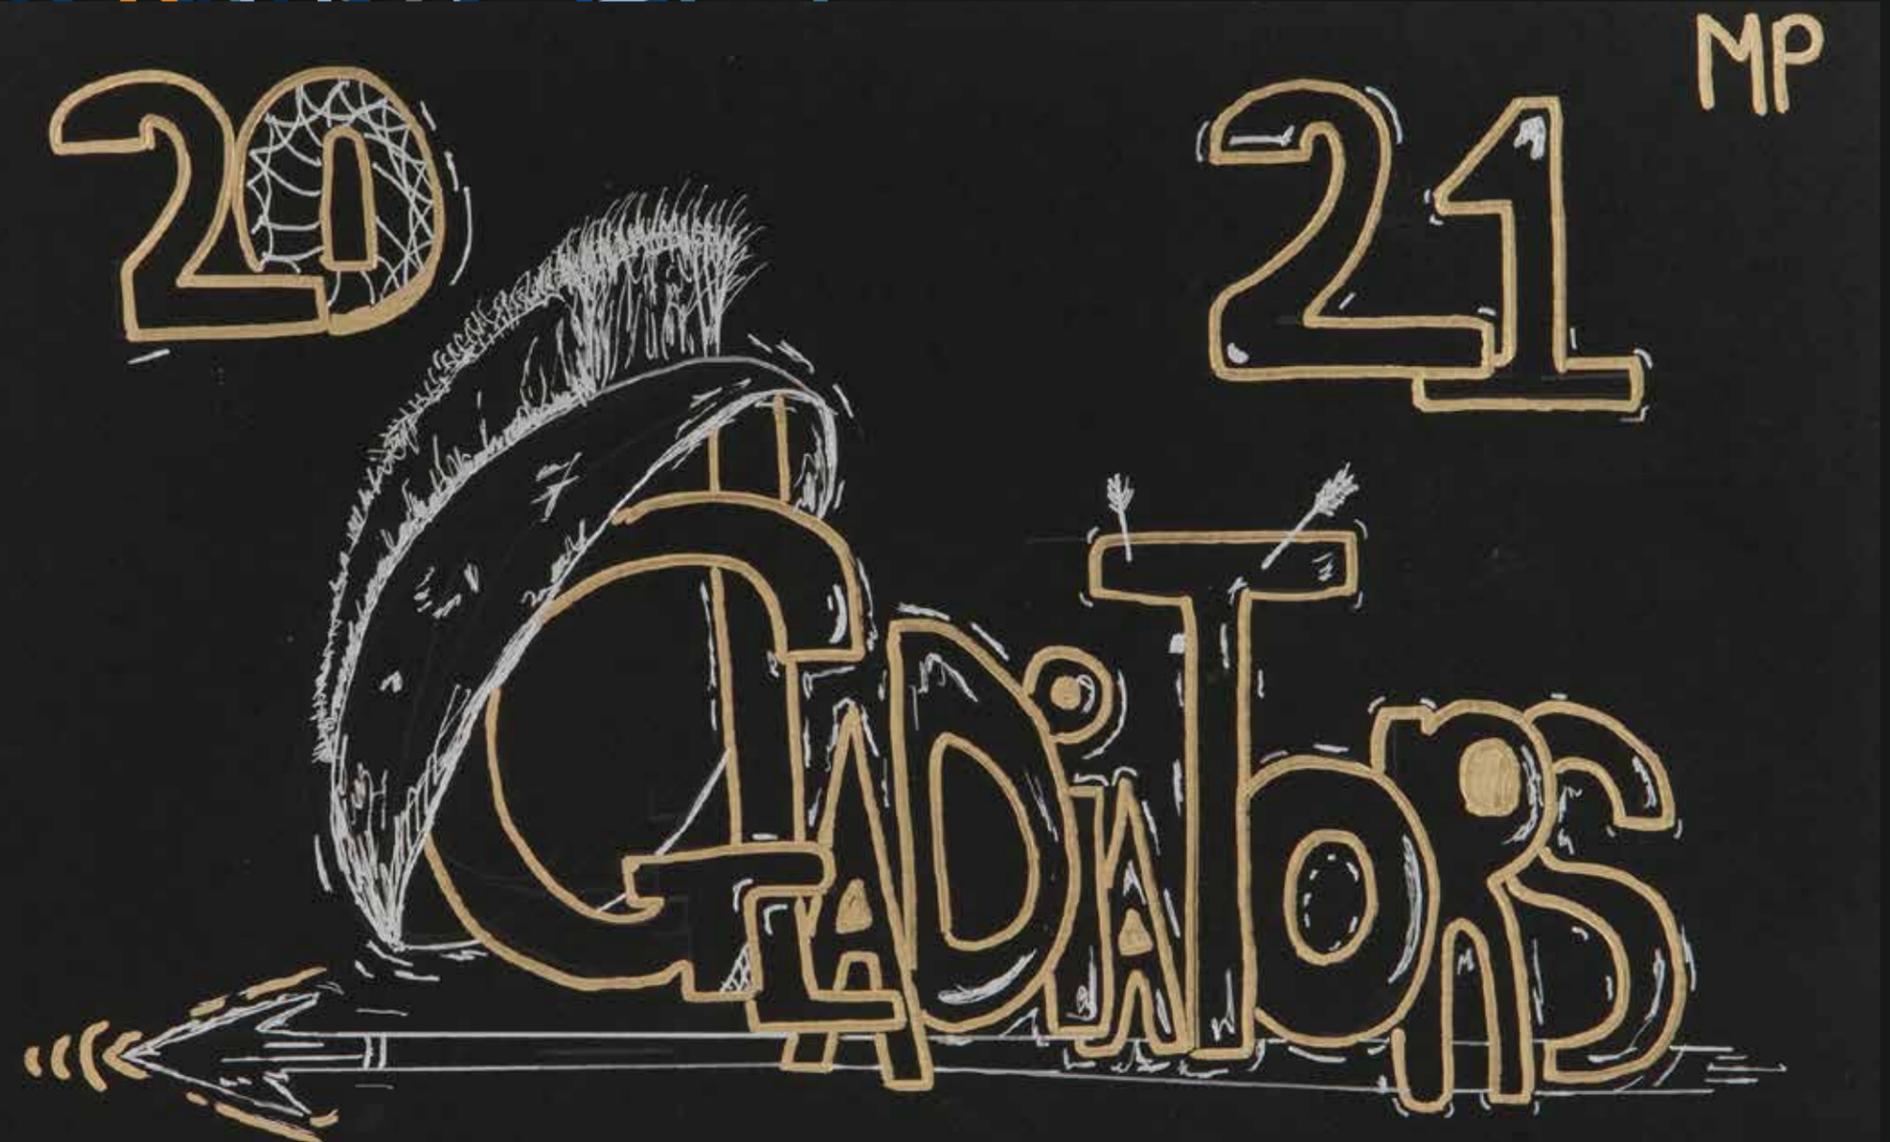

A word of advice: Do not look at the matric year as a whole, because it is quite a daunting experience. Take it day by day and then week by week, there will be obstacles and not all your plans will go as they are supposed to, but it is your ability to adapt and make the best of such situations that will make it a good year for you. Time will fly, so good luck and have fun!

I joined our school in Grade 8 and it's safe to say that my high school journey has been truly memorable.

I look back at all the interschool events, school dances, outings, camps and every milestone in-between in disbelief, because of how fast time has gone by.

For as long as I can remember, I knew that one day I wanted to be head girl, but I also knew it would take a lot of hard work and sacrifice. It's undeniable that there were many challenges along the way, but the support of my family, teachers and peers encouraged me not to lose sight of my goal. This is the reason why one of my proudest moments is receiving my head leader badge. The excitement and gratitude felt in that moment has stayed with me throughout this year. I'm grateful for the many lessons I've learnt these last few years, and I plan to practise them in every chapter of my life.

If there's one piece of advice I could leave behind for the learners of tomorrow, it would be this: Remain steadfast in your faith, only speak words of success and positivity, and above all else believe in yourself, because you are capable of way more than you give yourself credit for.

“ If you are trying to achieve, there will be obstacles or roadblocks. We have had them, everybody has had them. But obstacles don't have to stop you. If you run into a wall, don't turn around and give up. Figure out how to climb it, go through it or walk around it. ”
